

Session 1 is actually an outline

主千词汇:

egoist; egotist; altruist; introvert; extrovert; ambivert;
misanthrope; misogynist; misogamist; ascetic

1. the ego

(Latin) ego, meaning I. 我.

I is the greatest in the egoist's mind,
the most overused word in the egotist's vocabulary.

egocentric you consider yourself the center of the universe.

egomaniac you carry egoism to such an extreme that your needs, desires, 自大狂, 极端自我主义者.

egomaniacal and interests have become a morbid obsession, a mania.

2. others

(L) alter — other.

altruism 利他主义; 无私

Altruistic actions look toward the benefit of others.

alternate 轮流, 交替

If you alternate, you skip one and take the other.

An alternate in a debate, contest or convention is the other person who will take over if the original choice is unable to attend.

alternative 可供选择的事物.

If you have no alternative, you have no other choice.

alteration is of course a change — a making into something other.

When you alter something, you make other plans.

改动, 改变.

altercation is a verbal dispute.

! you have other ideas plans opinions

驳斥, 议驳.

altercation is a verbal dispute.

When you have an altercation with someone,

you have a violent disagreement, a 'fight'

with words.

you have other ideas, plans, opinions.

than those of the person on the other side.

↗ to contend or dispute actively.

Altercation is stronger than quarrel — the sentiment is more heated,

the disagreement is likely to be angry or even hot-tempered.

Alter ego

Someone with whom you are so close that you both do the same things, think alike, react similarly, and are, in temperament, almost mirror images of each other.

Any such friend is your other I, your other self, your alter ego.